

THE IMMANUEL MESSENGER

FEBRUARY 2026

Volume 40, Issue 5

From Your Pastor

In this month of February we will begin the season of Lent. Lent is a season of repentance, marked by a purposeful turning away from our sin and turning toward Christ for His mercy and forgiveness. Lent begins with Ash Wednesday, a day focusing especially on the truth that we, too, shall die and therefore need forgiveness from Jesus.

There are various concrete observances during Lent to remind us of the greater solemnity of this season of repentance, even as we continue to emphasize the Gospel of Jesus our Savior as central to our lives and worship. One of those changes Lent brings is that we do not sing Alleluia during Lent. Alleluia means "Praise the Lord." We omit this joyous response in order to focus on our need for repentance and faith. During Lent we also do not sing the Gloria in Excelsis (Glory to God in the Highest). Again, we do this to focus our worship on repentance. Personally, Lent is a time when people give up eating a particular meal—fasting—in order to devote that time to prayer and meditation on the Word of God, that He may bring about His renewal.

Recently I came across a prayer in one of the resources I use for my daily devotion and prayer time. I often keep that time while walking in our Fellow Hall at church. This prayer literally stopped me in my tracks! I prayed it, and then again and again. It consumed me! The prayer was written by the late Dr. Martin Franzmann, who taught at our Concordia Seminary in St. Louis. He was also a hymn writer and wrote the majestic hymn Thy Strong Word. The prayer that follows demonstrates his wonderful way with words and excellence in expressing God's truth which both convicts us of our sin and uplifts us in faith in Jesus our Savior:

"O Lord, we are people of flickering faith; we do not have the courage to take You at Your word, to give You what is Yours, that You may open the windows of heaven and pour down on us Your overflowing blessing. We doubt that Your heart is as great and as good as Your strong Word would make us believe, that the riches of Your glory in Christ Jesus will supply our every need. O Lord, we are a people of half faith, of cloven faith, half given to You, half saved up for ourselves to entrench us in our ways, to serve our ends, to give us greater greatness than You have given us when You made us children of God. Forgive us, Lord. Teach us, O Lord. Let Your Spirit blow and make our faith burn steady and clear, a flame upon Your altar. Let Your Spirit make our believing whole and wholly sane. Teach us to walk as Your Son walked on earth through ministry to death, through death to life and glory at Your right hand. Through Him we pray. Amen."

What a powerful prayer! Truly, a prayer to daily include in our observance of Lent, but also in every day. The first part of the prayer has its reference to God's accusation of His people at the time of His prophet Malachi (3:7-12). They were bringing half-hearted worship and puny offerings. God called them to repent and take Him at His Word that He would pour out His blessing on His people who trusted Him. It is true, as the prayer continues, we doubt God's good heart to us, and only half-heartedly believe His promise, "God will supply every need of yours according to His riches in glory in Christ Jesus" (Phil. 4:10). We are a people of half-faith, cloven (divided) faith, only half-given to the Lord and half saved up for ourselves to serve our ends. Lord, have mercy!

But the prayer returns us to our God of grace: "Forgive us, Lord. Teach us, O Lord. let Your Spirit blow and make our faith burn steady and clear." Lent turns us back to our Lord and that means we must be turned back in fuller measure to His Word by which the Holy Spirit works in us and empowers the life of Christ in us: that we give our lives as living sacrifices to the Lord (Romans 12:1). Come, join in dedicating yourselves to return to the Lord in this season of Lent, that He may make us people of full faith—full of faith and living for Jesus our Savior and Lord!

Pastor Mahnken

Upcoming Bible Studies during Lent*Ladies' Lenten Bible Study

Ladies, how is your life going? Do you sometimes wish God sent texts? God does provide some guidance for us. We will study how God guided six people in the Bible and learn how He desires to guide us too.

Please join us Wednesday, starting February 18 after the Lenten meal, or approximately 7:00 pm. Let the office, or Chris, know if you want a book. You will benefit the most by having your own book and doing the short reading each week. You may order a book even if you can't attend the study. You are invited even if you choose not to buy the book. Hope to see you there! We will grow together in His Word!

Men's Lenten Study

Fighting the Spiritual War! The devil often uses very subtle weapons to attack God's people—our sinful world and our sinful nature. The Holy Scriptures have much to say concerning the spiritual warfare in which we are engaged. Above all, God's Word directs our eyes to the cross and the empty tomb, where the Lord Jesus declares us to be the holy saints of God, and provides us with the assurance, the confidence, the peace, and the power to fight the spiritual war that HE has already won! Men, join us after Lent midweek suppers, beginning February 18, as Pastor Schulz leads us in this lively study!

On Sunday, December 21, 2025, the Sunday School children presented their Christmas service titled "To Us a Child Is Born."

Afterwards, everyone was invited to a delicious brunch served by the Board of Education.

A Christmas Brunch was served for the women of the congregation on December 4th in place of our regular meeting. In spite of extremely cold weather, there were 30 in attendance. It was an enjoyable morning with food, Bible Trivia games, and Christian fellowship.

We continue to work on a suitable display for the Confirmation pictures. Chris is purchasing a book with archival pages. Next, we will need to find the best place to make it available for viewing.

We continue to visit Immanuel members in care facilities and provide "Portals of Prayer" devotional booklets for them.

From Your library . . .
"Have we got a book for you!"

The Healing Quilt by Lauraine Snelling

When her Aunt Teza faces a second bout with breast cancer, her niece Kit Cooper decides to raise money for a new mammogram unit for their local hospital by creating a beautiful king-size quilt to be auctioned off at a later date.

Kit gathers a group of various women skilled in sewing and quilting. During the months to come, the women will form a close bond and it will become the therapy for several of the women carrying personal sorrows and long held secrets. Aunt Teza is the heart of the group and her deep faith and belief that prayer will carry you through, not only helps the others but their love for her will help with her surgery ahead and treatments.

We have several books in our library by Lauraine Snelling. They are enjoyable, faith-based reads.

Join us for our Lent Midweek Services

The season of Lent begins on Ash Wednesday, which will be February 18. The theme for our midweek Lent services this year is "For Us."

Our meditations will be guided by the Lenten hymn O Love How Deep (LSB #544). Some hymns tell a story, others teach, and still others create pictures in our minds of the great works of God. Some hymns do all three, weaving together a tapestry that is beautiful yet simple, wondrous yet easy to understand. O Love, How Deep is that kind of hymn. Although the words "for us" do not appear in the first stanza, the most pointed and beautiful language in the hymn is expressed in the phrase "for us." The phrase is reminiscent of the language of the Nicene Creed: "Who for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven."

Our midweek Lent services will begin at 5:45 p.m. A supper will be served following the service. After supper, our ladies are invited to a Bible Study "Divine Directions—How God Guides Your Path." Our men will join with Pastor Schulz around the theme "Fighting the Spiritual War."

Our worship themes will be as follows:

FEBRUARY 18—ASH WEDNESDAY:

O LOVE, HOW DEEP, HOW BROAD, HOW HIGH

FEBRUARY 25—THE ROBE OF HUMAN FRAME

MARCH 4—DONE FOR US

MARCH 11—FOR US HE SEEKS

MARCH 18—HEALING FROM DEMONS

MARCH 25—FOR US BETRAYED

APRIL 2—MAUNDY THURSDAY:

FOR MANY MEANS FOR YOU

APRIL 3—GOOD FRIDAY:

HIS DYING BREATH

APRIL 5—EASTER:

FOR US HE LIVES ON HIGH TO REIGN

II. Reading/Approval of Minutes and Agenda

The minutes were presented by Craig Bogatzke. It was moved, seconded, and unanimously approved by the voters to accept the October minutes.

III. Reports of Officers and BoardsA. Elders (Curtis Korner)

A planning meeting was held on January 4. Pastor Mahnken served some great homemade soup.

Thanks to Kent Bornhoft for years of service as an Elder. He also served as the secretary. Eric Schneider will take on the role as secretary while Alan Weiss will take on a new term as an Elder. Pastor's retirement will bring about a need to place a call and Pastor will help the Elders navigate through this process.

B. Trustees (Ryan Ernst)

Andrew Tuckpointing repaired some flashing and applied a sealant to stop some leakage and has seemed to be effective. A dripping faucet has been repaired. Lighting in the narthex is going to be converted over to LED panels. Feel free to bring it to the Trustees if you see a need for physical plant improvements. The contracted cleaning company continues to do a good job and now sets up/tears down for funerals or other events. There will be coordination with the city on repaving our parking area. The preschool flooring and repainting projects are complete.

C. Treasurer/Stewardship/Finance (Larry Abbe)

Currently, Immanuel is ahead $7,199.22.

The Immanuel Endowment Fund currently has $55,312.04. This fund has been inactive for a long time, in excess of a decade. It has been suggested that a new board be appointed and consider spending some of the money in the account (not to include the principle). There are parameters of what the money can be spent on: 30% for local mission projects, 30% for world mission projects, and 40% for projects deemed worthwhile but exclude general budget items.

D. Education/Youth (Deb Green)

Ross Wood is the Board of Education Chairman. Rachel Jacobson is the Board of Education Secretary. A teacher appreciation supper will be held on March 15. Confirmations questioning will be held on April 22 at 7:00 p.m. Confirmation Sunday is April 26. Graduate Brunch will be held on May 3rd. Vacation Bible School will be held July 6-9.

E. Preschool (No Report)F. Mission/Fellowship (Judy Gierstorf)

The Octoberfest meal proceeds were $2,284 (after expenses were paid). The garage sale will be held again in the spring. The soup dinner will be held in February but no date has been set.

G. Memorial Committee (Lodean Voss)

Nothing to report.

H. Pastor's Report (Pastor Mahnken)

Pastor Mahnken shared a variety of statistics pertaining to the congregation's membership data. He also spoke about the protocol for calling a new Pastor, which includes submitting a call, congregational survey, possibly suggesting pastors by name, receiving a call list, setting up a call committee who analyzes the call list, to name just a few of the steps in the sequence. You cannot put in a call for a new pastor while you currently have a pastor, so this process will not likely be put in motion until after January 1, 2027.

IV. Old BusinessA. New Constitution (Pastor Mahnken)

Reports that this is still a work in progress.

B. OtherV. New Business*A. Designate Use of Meal Receipts*1. Soup Dinner

The Mission Board has requested that they be allowed to serve the soup dinner and direct the proceeds to help fund their endeavors

2. Lenten Suppers (February 18 is Ash Wednesday)

Deb Green made a motion to approve these subsidies.

Rachel Mentink seconded this motion and the Voters unanimously approved it.

C. Nominations for President & VP of Synod1. President:

Pastor Joel Biermann, Professor at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis

Pastor Jamison Hardy, President of Concordia University System

2. 1st Vice President:

Pastor Peter Lange (incumbent).

3. Regional Vice-President:

Pastor Scott Sailer, former South Dakota District President

Pastor Steve Turner, former Iowa District West District President.

Leroy Hight made a motion to accept Pastor's recommendation on the synod offices. Deb Green seconded this motion and the Voters supported this recommendation.

D. Unity Ridge Lutheran School Donation

Unity Ridge is a Recognized Service Organization (RSO).

They are not affiliated with a specific congregation, which means raising funds can be a challenge. Their enrollment K-12 is 98 students and growing. Sandy Bubke moved and Ryan Morgan seconded to date $4,000 to Unity Ridge's general fund. Deb Green gave a testimonial about the vibrant worship she has witnessed during Wednesday Chapel services. The Voters unanimously approved this donation.

The money will be taken from the interest off a CD and interest from the Immanuel Endowment Fund*. Since disbursements from the Endowment Fund require approval of the Endowment Board, money from the Home Mission Fund will temporarily be used along with the CD interest to get to the $4,000 amount. This will help Unity Ridge get their money in a timely manner.

(*Once the Endowment Board releases the funds, they will be deposited into the Home Mission Fund to replenish the funds originally given to Unity Ridge.)

Pastor Mahnken's Report Voters' Meeting—January 11, 2026

We began 2025 with 632 baptized members and 526 communicant members on the books.

In 2025 six of our members have died—Lainey Naberhaus, Bernie Petersen, Bonard Christiansen, Duane Jacoby, Ruby Friedrichsen, and Gerald Pedersen.

Six members were added by Holy Baptism. Two members have been added through Adult Confirmation. Three communicant members have transferred in from other LCMS congregations.

We have transferred out one communicant member to another LCMS congregation.

Four communicant members were released by personal request.

Two communicant members were released because of having moved away and we lack contact information, despite efforts to obtain such information.

Four communicant members and one baptized member have been released because of no reply to available contact information.

One member was released to join a non-LCMS congregation.

Four members—two communicant and two baptized—have been released by personal request to join non-LCMS Lutheran Congregations.

We began 2025 with 632 Baptized members and ended 2025 with 620 (-12) Baptized members. We began 2025 with 526 Communicant members and ended 2025 with 512 (-14) Communicant members.

Our total Advent worship attendance was the highest it has been since 2014. We had good weather.

Our total Christmas attendance was the highest it has been since 2011. Major contributing factors to that include weather but, even more, “who is home for Christmas.”

Our average worship attendance for 2025 was 140.5/week, which was down from 148.7/week in 2024. Our average Saturday evening worship for 2025 was 32.9; the year before it was 33.8.

Thank you to our Sunday School Superintendents and teachers for preparing our children well for an excellent Sunday School Christmas service. Thank you to the Board of Education who prepared and served an excellent brunch following. We moved the service to Sunday morning this year mostly because, other than parents, grandparents, and other family members so few of our other members had attended. Still, we had wished more of those who attended would have joined us for brunch.

We also thank our Altar Guild, LWML, and others who helped decorate our church again for the Christmas season.

Thank you to Dennis and Judy Gierstorf, Loren and Janice Jepsen for loading out and delivering all the collected items from our Angel Tree.

Thank you to Cheryl and Denny Neppel for taking and delivering all the items collected for our TAP donations.

2025 was another year filled with God's blessings. One of the blessings given to Immanuel is a new Office Secretary—Jodi Lorenzen. Jodi has fit in so well that I keep forgetting she has not yet even been with us for a year. Every once in a while something new still comes up which gives her the “deer-in-the-headlights-look” 😊 and I say, “Oh, we haven't talked about that, have we?” or “You don't know about that, do you?” But she patiently and competently moves through it.

I want to briefly review the process a congregation goes through in the calling of a pastor, since Immanuel will be going through that process because of my retirement at the end of 2026. What I'm outlining is the usual process. At some point our District President will meet with Immanuel in what is called a Pre-Call Meeting. After that the congregation is invited to complete a survey to show what qualities you as members see are most important for your new pastor to have. The congregation is also invited to submit names of pastors they think would be a good fit for Immanuel. The District President takes those names and adds others to a Call List. Immanuel will have a Call Committee to evaluate the information given for those pastors on the Call List. The Call Committee makes a recommendation to the congregation. A call to a pastor is extended through the Voters' Assembly. A call to a new pastor will not be extended while I am still here. That is normal protocol. Sometime before I leave our Circuit Visitor, Pr. Chad Trunkhill of Our Savior, Denison and Bethlehem, Dow City will meet with our Elders to determine which of the area pastors will serve as Immanuel's Vacancy Pastor, the pastor who will see that this congregation's worship and pastoral needs are met until such time as a new full-time pastor is in place. A time of vacancy and calling a new pastor is a time in a congregation's life when the members need to review their ministry opportunities and needs. It is a time for you to help make sure existing ministry needs are covered. Immanuel has not been through this in 30 years, so it will be a learning experience for many, requiring good communication, cooperation, patience, and trust in the faithful mercies of our great God. He will “supply all your needs according to His riches in glory in Christ Jesus” (Philippians 4:19).

Have you ever had one of those moments you could just feel the delight of the Lord? If you closed your eyes, you could almost sense His arms wrapped around you as He softly spoke the words, "I love you, child." We had one of those this week at preschool. I couldn't wait to share it with you!

The children were enjoying Table Time. Table Time happens upon arrival when the children get to choose a fine motor toy and sit at the table. It takes place as soon as everyone enters the classroom. It is a wonderful time to sit and visit with the children. I get to hear about their lives and connect. Yesterday, I had four students at my table who all attended daycare together. They began to share a story about how someone was accidentally hurt at daycare that morning. Of course, I was getting details here and there but there was a definite highlight in the midst of the story. One of the children (in passing and not realizing the weight of what they were telling me) says, "Ya, we all stopped to pray when he got hurt."

Wait. You flew by that tidbit of information very quickly. Could you repeat what you just said? They all four confirmed it. A friend of theirs who had gotten hurt needed comfort and these four children stopped what they were doing, had compassion, and followed the Holy Spirit in prayer for their friend. I mean, honestly! How could you not cry happy tears at that beautiful revelation? I wasn't sure whether to full on weep or stand up and do a happy dance!

I know I share a lot that the Word says we should have faith like a child. It is hard not to crave a faith like theirs when you hear a testimonial like this one. These children know the fundamental importance of prayer AND they trusted their Savior enough to take the need to Him. What a beautiful and convicting moment. They know Jesus. They know He loves them. They know He cares about their friend. They know He has the power to heal. They know He likes it when they talk to Him. They know where two or more are gathered in His name, He is there with them. Okay, well maybe I didn't teach them the two or more part, but clearly the Holy Spirit did!

Isn't it enough to make your mouth drop open in awe and whisper your own prayer to the Lord? "Father, I want that too. Please pour out that kind of faith into my heart. Please let me see Your hand at work every single day. Help me to trust You, seek You, and be bold enough to pray for my friends in need (even on-the-spot)."

Thank you for your continued prayers and gracious support of the preschool ministry. These children are having an impact for the Kingdom of God.

Blessings,
Mrs. Gustafson

¡AMIGOS EN CRISTO and GRACIA!

News from Las Iglesias Evangélicas Luteranas
Amigos en Cristo in Denison and Gracia in Storm Lake
Pastor Pedro Lopez

Greetings in the Precious Name of Our Lord Jesus Christ! May you receive the gift of faith, the blessing of hope, and the peace of His love at Christmas and always.

Advent & Christmas Reflections

The Advent season came and went quickly, and now we celebrate Christmas! With all the snow and extreme cold, many events and worship services were canceled. Despite the weather, we celebrated our first Posada on December 13—St. Paul's style—bringing a little bit of our culture to our families. We say "St. Paul's style" because it was held inside the church. A big thank you to Joe Eisenbacher for handing out flyers for this event. Weather permitting, we plan to have two more posadas, hoping to reach new families in the area.

Regular Schedule

Our schedule remains the same for Praise & Prayer, Bible Study and Sunday Worship Services.

ESL Classes & Community Outreach

Deloit ESL Class: Our newest ESL class had a great turnout—thanks to volunteers from Faith-Deloit and Immanuel-Schleswig churches. We celebrated Thanksgiving together on closing day. Rachel, our volunteer from Immanuel-Schleswig, will offer a winter class in January, and we hope for another session in the spring.

St. Paul-Carroll: Hosted our first Posada Service. Families and friends gathered despite freezing weather. It was a wonderful opportunity to celebrate, share the message of Jesus, and invite families to church services. We continue to have Saturday Praise, Prayer, and Bible Study in the evenings.

St. Paul-Hartley: Finished ESL classes on November 24. Sadly, we will pause ESL in the spring, but plan to resume in the fall.

St. John-Storm Lake: We continue helping with the Swaddling Clothes Program every second Saturday of the month and worship services on Sundays at Grace. Plans are underway to start an ESL class this spring since we will not be in Hartley.

Prayer Requests

Please continue to pray for:

- Our Hispanic ministries, especially in Denison and Storm Lake
- Betin's health and his family
- The immigrant community we serve
- All new people we met this year through ESL classes and other programs
- Pastor Lopez and his wife—that the Lord blesses and strengthens them to continue His work

Bendiciones,
Pastor Lopez

The Message of Confirmation

What you do at home can affect your child's confirmation experience.

By Pastor Tim Pauls

Ah, confirmation—a defining mark of Lutheran congregations. It's supposed to be a good thing, the pastor preparing youth for communicant membership. Too often, though, it's seen only as a necessary rite of passage to endure rather than a blessing to enjoy.

For some reason teenagers just don't seem to enjoy memorizing the catechism or giving up their Wednesday nights to attend class. They often arrive as unwilling participants. And frankly, when that's the atmosphere, we pastors aren't all that excited, either.

So, what to do? I've contemplated other options, like a reality show format, where we vote one student out of class each week. But I believe there's a better way. Here are a few suggestions that pastors and parents might find helpful.

1. Start at Home.

Each chief part of the Small Catechism begins with the subtitle "As the head of the family should teach it in a simple way to his household." The Small Catechism isn't supposed to be the mystery book that your child suddenly discovers in confirmation class. It's designed to be used in the home by the family. When it gets used at home, it communicates to your child that it's a book for use in life, not just at church.

2. Start Early.

God created toddlers with the astonishing ability to memorize. They can hear a jingle on the radio one time and sing it back to you for the next eight hours in the car (What a fun trip that is!).

Young kids are very good at learning words by heart, even if they don't understand what the words mean; so help children memorize the catechism while they're still very young. They won't understand all the words; that will come later. For now, teach the text.

One of the great errors of education today is to think that kids need to understand the words before they learn them. So parents tend to leave the catechism on the shelf. Meanwhile, kids are growing up playing video games, listening to ads and music, often loaded with sexual innuendo (and often just plain explicit sexual material!). They're memorizing this stuff even though they don't understand the meanings. But they will.

Later, when they become puberty-stricken teenagers, their parents expect them to do memory work. That's the last thing they want to do. Eighth graders don't want to memorize—they want to argue, which actually is a necessary and helpful skill in education when properly directed. That's why you give them the data at an earlier age, so they can defend it and debate it later on. Confirmation class time is much better spend discussing doctrine than reviewing memory work.

Young children want to be grown up. That's why they follow you around the house, put on your shoes, and try everything that you're trying. They want to use grownup words and sing grownup songs. If you work with them at memorizing, they'll want to do it, too. And if you tell them that this is what eighth graders do, they'll work hard to be like "the big kids."

Don't be afraid of big church-words. Kids love them. Recently, I was talking to two 6-year-old students from our school in front of a bunch of adults. When I mentioned that we all were sinful, one of them said, "But God justifies us!" The second one soberly added, "This is good, because we are concupiscent."

I imagine the adults scurried for dictionaries when they got home [in case you don't know, concupiscent means having the constant inner desire to sin]. But the point is that when children hear new words, they want to use them.

Another big mistake is to believe that kids want to be young and cute. They don't. Sure, they'll learn little children's songs, but they're also capable of learning serious hymns. They love to sing them by memory in worship with the "big people."

It's disturbing that so many parents approve of makeup for very young girls, but then want to limit their vocabulary to childish words. Meanwhile, the world isn't waiting—it's indoctrinating your kids about grown up issues at early ages.

Dinosaur books (practically every boy's favorite) preach evolution, and after-school TV shows for kids imply that all religions are the same. It's a bad idea to give the world a decade's head start on these matters.

3. Take Little Steps.

You may feel ill equipped and unprepared to teach the faith at home. However, you have the tools you need and more opportunities than you realize. You probably read stories to your children, so read them Bible stories and talk about what God does for people in each one.

If you have a toddler in a stroller or a bike seat, recite the Apostles' Creed during the ride. Call your children over from the swing set and whisper, "Hey, do you know what? We should fear, love, and trust in God above all things." Kids love it when adults take time to impart information, because it makes them feel more grown up.

Celebrate their baptismal birthdays every year, so that they understand that it is important to you. Record selections of the catechism on your phone and play it in the car or at home. Do it together with your child. Better yet, print off a portion of the Small Catechism on a piece of paper and hang it in the kitchen. Each day, memorize three or four more words as a family. Don't force it. Make it a simple, important family ritual over the years.

4. Review Frequently.

As the old saying goes, "Repetition is the mother of all learning." Challenge your children to repeat the memory work you've learned as a family or tell you their favorite Bible stories. Praise them lavishly when they do.

5. Model Church Attendance.

Your kids are watching you; your actions teach them what is important to you. When parents drop off their kids for Sunday School on their way to breakfast, it sends the message that they skip Bible Class because they believe that there's a time when we can stop learning about the Lord and His grace.

When parents attend worship only sporadically, it teaches their children that church is something to be done occasionally—that Jesus' presence and forgiveness are no more important than sports or some activity around the house.

6. Model Study At Home.

Set aside some time for your own prayer and Bible reading. Your kids need the example. You need the Word.

7. Model Repentance.

It's hypocritical to teach your kids about confession and then never apologize to them for your mistakes. And your kids know it. So confess your sins when you mess up, and ask for their forgiveness. Furthermore, voice your thankfulness that Jesus forgives you, too.

One of the failures that you may need to confess is that you haven't taught the faith at home through the years, and now you're facing a rebellious confirmand. Don't bluster and threaten. Confess. And then rejoice that the Lord forgives you for all of your sins. When all is said and done, that is the message of confirmation.

Consulting for Christ Enabling Bible Translation in Africa

BIBLE TRANSLATION CONFERENCE

For the first time, the bi-annual international Bible translation conference was held outside the US. BT 2025 was held in Thailand October 28-31, and since it was not in the US, many more of our international partners were able to obtain visas and attend. Lutheran Bible Translators facilitated the attendance of church leaders from Cameroun, Ethiopia, Nigeria, Tanzania, and Papua New Guinea. They joined us in attending the sessions and discussing what was significant for them. All of the attendees expressed how much they had learned and were thankful to be able to participate.

One of the major topics at Bible translation conference was AI and its role in translating the Bible. A difficulty in applying AI is that written material must first exist in the language in order to properly train AI on it. For most of the languages we work with, there is nothing written down in it. Often, there is not even an existing alphabet. This limits the use of AI to languages that have some Bible translation done, or that have taken the time to write down a significant amount of cultural stories and materials.

One of the main conclusions is that AI should only be used to prepare a very rough draft. A human translator needed to evaluate what is produced and make the final decision on how to translate the passage. There are two main AI versions that have been developed for Bible translation. Testing shows that one seems to be better at translating non-poetry sections of the Bible, while the other is better at poetry. One recommendation was that translators should refer to both when drafting their translation, but not copy directly from either.

The group from Lutheran Bible Translators took part of our first day before the conference started to visit an elephant camp. This was a place that cared for retired work elephants. So the elephants were very tame and had spend their whole lives around people. We were able to get up close and personal with them, giving them food, washing them, and petting them.

TRANSLATION CHECKING

The Mende team (from Sierra Leone) is making very good progress. I met with them online to check their translation material in September and November. We are currently working on the book of Isaiah and have reached chapter 36.

I have enjoyed getting to know the Kono team (Sierra Leone). We met online in September, October and November to work on some of the minor prophets.

In October, I also worked two weeks with the Tsamakko team from Ethiopia. We were able to check over the last half of their translation of the book of Genesis.

TRANSLATION TIDBITS

In Isaiah 30:10, an interesting figure of speech is used that ended up being said differently in the Hebrew, English, and Mende languages. The NRSV translates part of the verse as, "Do not prophesy to us what is right; speak to us smooth things..." This keeps the literal meaning of the Hebrew phrase "smooth things". The NIV states it more naturally in English as "pleasant things". When it was translated into Mende, this was most naturally said as "sweet things". So the same idea is expressed using smooth, pleasant, and sweet all giving the same meaning in their particulate contexts.

In the Kono language, it is natural to use the liver in many figures of speech that have to do with emotions. It is often used in places where we would use "heart" in English. One example of that is Amos 2:16 "those who are stout of heart" ESV. In Kono, this is translated as "those who have strong livers", which is how they speak of being brave.

In Genesis 27:44, the Hebrew language uses a figure of speech to describe Esau's anger. Literally, it says, "until the anger of your brother returns." In English, this sounds like Esau would get angry again, which is the wrong meaning. So English translations state it differently in order to give the correct meaning: "fury turns away" (NRSV); "fury subsides" (NIV); "anger cools down" (GW). But in the Tsamakko language, they have the same figure of speech as Hebrew, so they can say, "until the wrath of your brother returns," and it has the proper meaning.
